Research has shown that masks are not effective. It is overreach to mandate and require people to wear a mask when there is evidence that it will not prevent the spread of COVID. It should be personal choice. Encouraging hygienic practices, staying home when people are not feeling well and actually providing early treatment if affected is what the focus should be to fight this virus. Providing false hope while infringing on personal freedoms goes beyond the scope of any government. The reality this will not "rid" us of COVID any more than it does for the flu or the common cold. In fact, especially in the younger population, there is more risk of death and other issues from the flu than COVID and that is a fact validated by CDC data
