I am completely against the mask mandate. Clearly the masks are doing very little if anything at all to stop or even slow down the virus. In my profession it is our job to clean houses mostly filled with dust, dirt, debris ect. Many of them are horder homes and we continuously wear masks while cleaning them. Even with these precautions we still have black mucus from the dirt and dust going right through our masks. This fact alone has told me right from the beginning masks will not prevent or protect us from a virus since it is so much smaller than a dust particle. After almost 2 years of this song-and-dance with the mask on/mask off mandate not to mention vaccines and boosters and yet now another spike in covid you cannot convince me that a mask does anything at this point other than to give power to people to tell other people what to do with their own body. And that is yet another point, I am not going to make my employees confront customers who walk into our estates that are not wearing a mask tell them to put a mask over their face. That is a job that should never be put on any human being given the fact you don't know the mentality of the person being confronted.
