No more mandates. The vaccine has been widely available for a while now. People have had enough time to weigh the risk vs reward in whatever avenue of protection to the virus they see fit. The data still shows the same consistency in vulnerable populations to this disease. People should have the right to choose and not have this illusion of safety forced on them. The idea that "masks work" hinges around the proper type of mask, proper fitting and wearing, and also general handling of the face and mask. This does not happen and will not. I think we've seen enough lunacy spread throughout this country as a result of masks and I'm done with it. Let people make a choice. Clean up the disposable masks littered everywhere in the meantime.
