Before burdening property owners with increased taxes, the commissioners need to listen to their constituents and thoughtfully consider substantial spending cuts first, instead of instinctively raising taxes as the first, and only, option. When individuals are faced with income reductions and/or rising costs, our only option is to cut spending, because we don't have the luxury of raising taxes to make up for it. We are already the second highest taxed jurisdiction in the state, with few amenities to show for it. You already raised our assessments, resulting in additional revenue. What did you do with it?!? It is well known that businesses don't want to come here because "we don't have the population to support them". Well, we'll never achieve the needed population or those businesses that generate additional revenue if you tax the hell out of everyone that moves here. Placing more burden on property owners will only force them into a decision to leave the area for a more desirable location, taking their tax dollars with them.
