I want to thank you for the opportunity to voice my opinion on the proposal to not change the constant yield rate resulting in a property tax hike. I'm not sure what you commissioners are thinking in proposing to raise taxes at this time. This is not the time to put more financial pressure on your constituents because of the following: We are at a 40 year high inflation rate. Folks are having problems buying food and keeping their vehicles fueled up. Our property assessments are also at a very high rate which will probably fall when the housing bubble bursts. We are still in the midst of a pandemic (rates are raising by the day). It is an election year. Because of these reasons, I request that you reconsider raising our property taxes. A YES vote from you on this issue will mean a NO vote from me at election time.
