MD has a surplus and Charles County wants to raise property taxes? Inflation is real. My retirement is taxed because I'm not 65 and won't be for almost 13 years. The tax on gas will increase again in July. A four percent COLA in my retirement really doesn't compete with the gas tax or inflation in general. Usually with a COLA increase, the price of healthcare insurance increases as well. So an increase in property taxes doesn't really compel me to remain in Charles County and certainly not in MD. If this is passed by the Commissioners I'm sure people will finally realize inflation doesn't care if you make less than $400,000.
