Dear Commissioners I have been a lifetime sportsman learning to safely handle firearms at a very young age. I have been actively hunting for the last fifty years with out mishap. Recently when the law changed I applied for and received my conceal carry permit for personal protection. I believe in the second amendment in the same way as our founders did. They knew how government overreach occurs and wanted to insure that the citizenry could always protect itself against such actions. Having lived in Charles County for twenty years I see no reason for this legislation. Trained law abiding gun holders are not the problem. Your personal exemption to the legislation an example of rules for thee but not for me. We have seen many examples of this type of governance during the last two years. Charles county could be better served by you concentrating on legislation that makes us safer by enforcing laws that penalize offenders of gun laws. I have not heard of any law abiding gun owner being arrested for robbing stores, assaulting or murdering anyone. This proposed legislation in not needed and is a clear example of government overreach. Yours truly Timothy Almeida
