Marta woman and Pomonkey Creeks are two of the few remaining Potomac's large mouth bass spawning beds. Imagine believing you could pay for the rights to destroy this 5000 year old habitat by "RE-wilding" a few acres. The wild inhabitants have a right to their homes too. Please find a less destructive location for this development . Having devoted many years to suicide prevention I know the value of green spaces. They allow our minds to rest, relax and recover. Increased interaction with nature can help reduce crime and creates a sense of safety we all so desperately need. Please protect what remain of the feeder streams and springs that support the Mattseoman and Pomonkey Creeks.
