County Commissioner,

Hello,

Fully funding the school's proposed budget is the first step in helping the county recover financially. It is well known the the wealth and income of a county's demographics is directly linked to the local school systems' performance.

A school system's performance is directly linked to the expertise that stays in the classrooms, available resources for our students and overall student progress.

Residents move to adjacent counties and expert teacher and move to more well equipped counties that are fully invested into their school systems. We cannot afford to lose county residents at this time.

Charles county made a excellent decision when they fully funded future proposed budgets and we cannot stop that momentum now even in the current era of COVID-19. We must continue to push forward with such proposals and fully fund the school's budget to help the county recover lost revenue.
