RE: Enlarging local airport while harming Mattawoman Watershed Dear Sir/Ms, There must be better, more creative and environmentally sound ways to improve the airport while at the same time keeping the Mattawoman Watershed protected. Developers consistently take the easiest, laziest and most uncreative route of planning their projects by simply encroaching on public 'uninhabited' lands, never taking into account the long-term environmental costs of such poor planning. Maybe instead of your archaic expansion-at-all-cost thinking you could arrive in the year 2021 and adapt more environmentally friendly development plans that respect Nature and the quality of life of your constituents.
